College Draft Slowed

Grads Told Find Essential Jobs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—The government today ordered a 30-day postponement in induction of all college students graduating at this time to give them a chance to find jobs in essential industry.

Students granted special deferments to finish college have heretofore been subject to immediate induction upon graduation. Selective Service Chief Hershey wired local draft boards to change to the new policy effective immediately.

Draft officials in Washington said it was not immediately known how many of the current graduates will be affected by the ruling.

Local boards were instructed to review the cases of all students affected within 30 days after their graduation.

Students who obtain jobs considered essential to "national health, safety or interest" could then be granted deferments.

A Selective Service spokesman emphasized that decision on granting deferments is entirely up to the local boards. He explained:

"A MAN WHO IS considered essential in one community might not be in another, though he did the same type of work."

Most permanent deferments are expected to go to students in engineering and other technical or scientific fields.

Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee, told the Defense Department today that he sees no need for drafting veterans now.

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant defense secretary for manpower, said the department "does not recommend taking in veterans at this time."

Vinson's statement came at the resumption of the committee's hearings on the administration's Universal Military Service and Training bill, which calls for drafting 18-year-olds.

The chairman had previously instructed Mrs. Rosenberg to be prepared to discuss why veterans (Continued on Page Two)

Truman, Plevin Open Talks On Mutual Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—President Truman and French Premier Rene Plevin began momentous talks on the world crisis today with mutual pledges of continuing warm friendship between the two nations.

The President and French leader exchanged cordialities at a formal ceremony of greetings on the eastern concourse of Union Station shortly after Plevin and his party arrived in Washington by train.

Standing in the open concourse in a light rain, Mr. Truman told the premier and his entourage: "All of us here in this country are friends of France. We hope to impress you with the fact that we are the real friends of France."

Plevin, in turn, told the President:

"We remember what your country did for our country during the last two wars, and what you have done for us since then. We remember that during the last two centuries your country and my country have been friends."

Plevin then went to the French embassy to rest before beginning formal conferences with Mr. Truman in an effort to reach a personal understanding (Continued on Page Two)

IN WASHINGTON they're arguing about drafting 18-year-olds, but the South Koreans evidently don't bother about an age limit. This rifle-armed South Korean soldier in the hot Wonju area looks hardly old enough to be a Boy Scout.

FLASH SEEN 300 MILES

Nevada Is Rocked Again By Latest Atomic Test

LAS VEGAS, Jan. 29—Residents of Nevada braced themselves today for the next of a series of blasts being touched off by the Atomic Energy Commission on its desert testing range 40 miles north of this gambling mecca.

They were almost jarred out of their beds at daybreak yesterday by the second—and by far the strongest—atomic test explosion in two days.

The AEC, citing security regulations, continued to remain silent on the purpose of the tests, but speculation in Washington pointed to two possible objectives—the development of "atomic super-artillery" for use on the battlefield and the development of a better "trigger" for the A-bomb.

The latest blast yesterday rocked all of Southern Nevada and parts of Arizona, Utah and California.

THE FLASH THAT accompanied the blast was seen 300 miles distant in Los Angeles where residents described it as an explosion of a giant flash bulb. Those who saw it in Las Vegas and other Southern Nevada communities said the bright white light was followed by a rose-colored glare.

Las Vegas residents reported that an atomic cloud followed the detonation and the AEC confirmed that this was true.

A spokesman for the commission said the explosion was merely "another in a periodic series planned for the government's testing range."

Residents of Las Vegas were

Dry Cleaners Lose 'Gravy'

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—The high cost of living is taking the gravy out of the dry cleaning business, but it is the gravy comes from the pants and not off the vest.

Cleaning establishments in Chicago report the usual harvest of jewelry, money, false teeth, theater tickets and other items has fallen off sharply. Most operators agree people aren't so free and easy any more, are cleaning out their pockets.

far from happy over the "periodic series." They flooded the police station switchboard with calls and some of them, fearing that their homes would be damaged, demanded that something be done about it.

Gambling casino operators were unhappy, too. The Civil Aeronautics Administration grounded all planes in Las Vegas from 6 a. m., on, presumably because of the danger of radioactive contamination of the air.

U.S. Indicates It To OK Compromise In UN Ballot

UN Patrols Nine Miles From Seoul

Allies Make Slow But Sure Advances

TOKYO, Jan. 29—United Nations troops, quelling Chinese counter-attacks with the aid of air and artillery barrages, advanced today to three miles north of Suwon and shot patrols within nine miles south of Seoul.

A U.S. Eighth Army communique announced at 8 p. m. Monday that tank-led and other UN assault forces continued their "slow and consistent advance all along" South Korea's 40-mile western front.

North of the major hub of Suwon, the bulletin stated, the main body of UN troops registered 24-hour gains ranging up to three miles along Korea's chief rail-highway artery leading to the Red-occupied capital of Seoul.

International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero reported in a front dispatch at 9:49 p. m. Monday that "advance spearheads" of the five-day-old offensive had darted within nine miles below the Han river. The Han forms Seoul's southern boundary.

IN SEVERAL instances, the dispatch added, these spearheads in front of the main Eighth Army forces consisted of "sizable patrols supported by tanks." Some of these units pulled back from their farthest point of advance before nightfall.

An Eighth Army spokesman declared Monday night that these were "minor and transient patrols" in relation to the main attacking UN forces which had pushed no farther than 15 miles south of the Han.

The day's heaviest enemy resistance was encountered along the western coastal wing of the five-day-old UN offensive in the area northwest of Suwon which is 17 air miles below Seoul.

Northeast of Suwon, an American and Puerto Rican column of the U.S. Ninth Corps scored an unopposed further advance of 1,000 yards late in the afternoon.

This gain was made after 38 Mustang fighter-bombers had fire-bombed and rocketed more than 26 Red-occupied villages and towns in the area.

Ashville Soldier Loses Eye In Korean Battle

A 19-year-old Ashville man lost his right eye in action while serving with the U. S. Army in Korea.

He is Sgt. Herbert Sturgell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sturgell of 225 Scioto street in Ashville, who is being treated for the injury in an Army hospital in Phoenixville, Pa.

Sgt. Sturgell reportedly suffered the loss of his right eye when struck by fragments of a shell while in Inchon, Korea.

The soldier was flown back to the U. S. from Japan Jan. 15.

Sturgell attended Ashville high school and enlisted into the Army four years ago, when he was only 15 years old. He is expected to return to Ashville on leave about Feb. 15.

WITH THE SCROLL OF THE "Declaration of the Universal Rights of Man" between them, Trygve Lie (left), secretary general of the United Nations, and Warren Austin, chief of the American delegation to the UN, discuss a question vitally important to the peace for which they are working at Lake Success.

Air Base Probe Set

Complaint List Said 'Enormous'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—The Airforce said today that an intensive triple investigation is underway into an "enormous number of complaints" concerning its overcrowded Lackland base at San Antonio, Tex.

Air Secretary Finletter disclosed that Merrill Meigs, publisher of the Chicago Herald-American; Arthur Fleming, former chairman of the Civil Service Commission; and, tentatively, Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post, have been named to a civilian commission in the latest investigation move.

The Senate Armed Services Committee and the Airforce Inspector general's office also are looking into the matter. Airforce Assistant Secretary Zuckert arrived at Lackland last night.

Finletter said the Airforce's own report indicates that health conditions at the base are satisfactory, that the food is acceptable, and that the billeting situation is being met although a great many of the men are in tents.

But he said the center is greatly overcrowded, with about 40,000 recruits and a capacity of only 22,500, and that the Airforce is "very concerned" about the complaints.

Finletter said he had no information concerning charges that the complaints are being spread by subversives other than the local announcement at Lackland that this was a possibility.

Bevin Expected To Quit Post

LONDON, Jan. 29—Well-informed British government sources said today that Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin's resignation seems inevitable due to his serious illness.

Bevin has been confined to bed for several weeks with a heart ailment and pneumonia.

It is expected Prime Minister Attlee will discuss the situation with Bevin

Wage Stabilization Meet Expected To Be Scheduled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston is expected today to convene a top level labor-management conference soon to develop machinery for settling disputes arising out of the wage stabilization program.

It seems probable that this job will be delegated to the nine-man Federal Wage Board headed by Cyrus S. Ching, whose duty now is to draft directives relaxing the rigid freeze on wages.

This move came as:

1. Price Administrator DiSalle said he hopes to achieve "substantial rollbacks" in some prices, and reported that he does "not see rationing in the near future or possibly at all."

2. The Wage Stabilization Board said it will issue orders within 48 hours giving the green light to pay increases already negotiated between unions and managements.

3. HOUSING EXPEDITER Tighe E. Woods urged Congress to enact a "very tough" federal rent law to backstop the wage-price freeze. The present stopgap act expires March 31.

4. The National Production

Authority is working on broader controls for steel and other metals as part of the general industrial mobilization.

To determine the exact metal supply picture, NPA has ordered a survey at consuming plant levels and has asked all government departments and agencies to submit their needs for steel, copper and aluminum.

Administration officials are considering doubling the size of the present nine-man federal wage board to 18 members—six public, six industry and six labor.

W. Willard Wirtz, Northwest-ern university professor and chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board after World War II, is expected to return to Washington in an important role in the new stabilization program.

Turkish Woman Fighter Pilot Going To Korea

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 29—The adopted daughter of the late Kemal Ataturk, the "father of modern Turkey," will join the United Nations air force in Korea soon as the first woman fighter pilot at the front.

The Turkish defense ministry has announced that 38-year-old Sabiha Gokcen recently applied for combat duty in Korea and her application was approved. She will join the Turkish air force detachment now fighting in Korea.

Sabiha is a graduate of the regular Turkish air force pilot training program. At one time she was chief instructor of the Turkish civil air force and in 1935 flew in combat against rebellious Kurds tribesmen in Eastern Turkey.

She was adopted by Ataturk, the first president of the Turkish republic, when she was 12 years old.

Control Chiefs Are 'Unknown'

ATLANTA, Jan. 29—The Atlanta Constitution-Journal reports that the man in the street has heard of the cost of living but is not too well informed about the men who are attempting to freeze it.

One man, asked about Cyrus Ching, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board, thought him a "Chinese Communist."

Eric Johnston, economic stabilization director, was thought by one citizen to be a Georgia labor leader and another thought Michael V. DiSalle, price stabilization director, was the man who discovered the fountain of youth.

New Peace Overtures Are Hinted

Sanctions On Red China Seen Delayed

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 29—Lebanon formally introduced today in the United Nations an amendment to the United States resolution giving continued peace overtures to Red China priority over sanctions.

It is understood that the U.S. is willing to accept this compromise move and assure a solid majority for branding Red China guilty of aggression.

The Asia-Arab bloc sought to stave off looming defeat for its resolution calling for a seven-power conference which would include Red China. This was done by weaving into a stipulation that discussion of a ceasefire is to be the first order of business.

The Lebanese amendment to the U. S. resolution, drafted after weekend conferences between Britain and the U. S. on highest levels in an effort to heal the rift over sanctions, always the fear of immediate sanctions by giving negotiations top priority.

THE AMENDMENT turns the trick by adding thirty words to the key provision of the U. S. resolution, providing for a study of punitive steps against Red China by members of the UN Collective Measures Committee.

The amendment refers to the three-man UN Good Offices Committee designated in the American draft for keeping contact with Peiping. It then adds the all-important phrase "it being understood that the Committee (of Collective Measures) is authorized to defer its report if the Good Offices Committee—referred to in the following paragraph—reports satisfactory progress in its efforts."

Last week the U. S. was inclined to let the Arab-Asia resolution have priority.

But the furious efforts of that group to block passage of the American resolution has led to a decision on the part of the U.S. delegation to insist on top preference in the vote for theirs.

The wrangle certain to develop on this point may slow up today's expected decision.

The introduction of Lebanon's amendment to the American resolution again underlined the split in the Arab-Asia bloc revealed last Saturday when Lebanese Delegate Dr. Charles Malik announced his support of the U.S. motion indicting Red China for aggression.

WARREN AUSTIN, chief American delegate, concluded Saturday's session with a demand that the political committee come to a decision. He said: "We are conscientiously opposed." (Continued on Page Two)

Old Volcano Blows Again

PORT MORESBY, Jan. 29—New Guinea's volcanic Mount Lamington erupted for the second time in 24 hours today, sending pumice dust 12,000 feet into the air.

The new eruption came as residents were burying victims of the last week's violent explosion, but all escaped uninjured. Four thousand persons were killed in last week's eruptions.

Price Of A Hill In Korea: Just 41 Of 45 U.S. Marines

IN KOREA, Jan. 29—This was the afternoon before the entrance into Seoul last September, and now the platoon of Marines sprawled in a roadside ditch waiting to assault Hill 90, latch-pin of the enemy defense line southwest of the Korean capital.

These were Marines and most of them very, very young. They were the men of dog company from the Second Battalion of the Fifth Marine Regiment. Lt. George McNaughton, the platoon leader, a ripened veteran at 27, smiled as the younger Marines volleyed gibes before the battle.

"Let them laugh," said McNaughton, who hails from Hammond, Ind. "They'll find out soon enough."

Pvt. Jimmy Frenchman, a twenty-year-old rifleman from Enid, Okla., established himself in a roadside barbershop.

He offered to shave or shear the hair of any GI. None volunteered. There are some risks that even a Marine hesitates to take.

Frenchman moved out of the barber shop and bedded down in the ditch. The platoon was drawing sporadic fire from an enemy machinegun. One burst powdered a blob of dirt within two feet of the Marine barber.

"Hey," he said to a war correspondent, "I've got a headline for you."

The reporter knew Frenchman was aiming for laughs, but he bit on it anyway.

"Marine has close shave near barber shop," bellowed the private.

Everybody laughed. They were loose and relaxed, this platoon. Pvt. Joe Schneider, just past 21, decided to get into the act and bait the correspondent.

"What's your home town?" he asked, switching the usual routine.

"Why," said Pvt. Schneider, "you're practically a next door neighbor of mine."

"Yeah? Where do you come from?"

"Omaha!" roared Pvt. Schneider, and again the platoon laughed in high glee.

There was nothing stilted in their humor. It was blithe and spontaneous. They were young and very relaxed. They were still joking when McNaughton came to his feet. Their time had come, the time to fight, to bleed, and possibly to die.

"Third platoon," said McNaughton, "move out."

The third platoon of Dog Company moved out behind McNaughton and Lt. H. J. (Hogjaw) Smith, the company commander.

The correspondent might never have known what happened to them in the next 24 hours except that he ran into McNaughton the other day. The lieutenant had aged many years in four months. He greeted the reporter and recalled the carefree badinage by the roadside.

America, if you want to know the high price of real estate in Korea, read this:

There were 45 men in McNaughton's platoon as those Marines laughed and joked on that warm September afternoon. There were four left by 2 a. m. the following day. Jimmy Frenchman, the would-be barber, was killed by burp-gun fire. Joe Schneider was killed by a mortar fragment. Hogjaw Smith was hit between the eyes and died instantly.

George McNaughton told the story without dramatics or self-pity.

"That's what we paid for Hill 90," he said.

area visited Sunday by Gen. Douglas MacArthur who was told there are indications that outbreaks of dread typhus have cut down part of the Chinese armies in Korea, particularly those on the east coast.

The UN commander also was given a "conservative" estimate that the Chinese had lost 40,000 men killed and 120,000 wounded under UN ground and air blows since Jan. 1.

FROM THE CENTRAL front, meanwhile, INS War Correspondent Robert Schackne reported in a Monday night field dispatch that an Allied patrol column had stabbed into a mid-Korean area where large Chinese forces had been built up.

The patrol was counter-attacked by a Communist battalion which tried to cut off the UN troops and the battle continued into the night. A U.S. 10th Corps briefing officer said the patrol was attacked by the Chinese at 12:30 Monday afternoon near Sinchon, 18 miles northwest of Wonju.

At last report, the UN column was fighting fiercely to prevent encirclement and had radioed a request for reinforcements.

Forward units of a 60,000-man Communist force, massed in the hills below the Han river which skirts Seoul's southern rim, fought fanatically to stem the grinding UN offensive in its fifth day. They counter-attacked and infiltrated but paid dearly for their efforts as UN planes, guns, grenades and bayonets mowed down the tenacious enemy.

In a field dispatch from the vital sector north of Suwon, INS War Correspondent Fred Waters reported that the UN troops advanced against Chinese Reds "putting up tremendous resistance and dying in their mountain foxholes."

WATERS' DISPATCH, received at 9:09 p. m. Monday, said that in one savage combat alone 130 Chinese Communist soldiers were killed during the day as they put up last-ditch opposition to the UN advance. Out of this group, only eight Chinese prisoners were taken alive.

The dispatch said thundering artillery blasted and waves of low-sweeping planes raked the enemy positions but infantrymen had to climb up the hills and rout the Chinese out of their foxholes in close quarter fighting, some of it hand to hand.

Austin indicated then that the U.S. is willing to defer the question of sanctions against the Peiping regime. This would leave the way open for a compromise to give priority to continued peace overtures on UN terms to Red China by the three-man Good Offices Committee outlined in the U.S. resolution.

Although Soviet and Arab-Asia tactics may delay the vote once again, the U.S. is confident its resolution will draw the necessary two-thirds majority. Speculation ranges from 43 to 45 favorable votes. There are 60 members on the political committee.

Voting in favor will be for certain, in addition to the U.S., all but Argentina and possibly Mexico of the 20-nation Latin-American bloc. The two may abstain.

Week Of Jan. 13 Slips Slightly From Year Ago

The first full week in January, ending the 13th, found business in Pickaway County not quite up to the mark it made during the same period last year.

According to a report of sales tax stamps sold here, business was down $94.57, dropping from last year's $4,532.50 for the week to this year's $4,437.93.

State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy reported, however, that total Pickaway County tax stamp sales for the current fiscal year are still far ahead of last year's.

Total collections from sale of the tax stamps since July 1, 1950, is $165,433.36, compared to $143,132.87 collected over the same period in the previous year. This represents a gain of $22,300.49.

The state treasurer reported gains in gross sales of prepaid tax receipts in all classes of industry except general stores for the week ending Jan. 13. General store receipts totalled $256,001.23 for the week, compared to $292,360.50 for the same week last year.

ans should continue to be exempted from service by law in preference to taking 18-year-olds and others.

Before Mrs. Rosenberg could begin her discussion, however, Vinson remarked:

"Personally, I can see no justification or reason for changing the law as far as veterans are concerned."

MRS. ROSENBERG prefaced her remarks by stating that the department plans to "squeeze" 800,000-man 4-F pool to induct as many as possible of those already rejected for physical and mental reasons. Draft Chief Hershey has estimated that 75,000 of the 4-Fs can be used in limited service.

The Defense Department official told the committee that after consultation with Hershey and Labor Secretary Tobin, her department recommended that men be called up in this order:

(1) 18 year-olds; (2) non-veterans with dependents other than children aged 19 through 25; and (3) veterans who served after Sept. 2, 1945, (V-J Day) and before June 1950, except those with long-term enlistments.

Earlier, Vinson said that Congress could order induction of married men without children and "postwar veterans" instead of drafting 18-year-olds.

3 Motorists Pay Fines In Local Court

Three motorists were fined for traffic law violations last week-end in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

Carl Eberts of Wellston and Arthur Holsinger of Cleveland were fined $10 and costs each in the court for passing in a non-passing zone on Route 23. Arrests were made by State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells.

Donald Voelker of Columbus was fined $15 and costs in the court for speeding on Route 23 south of Circleville. Voelker was accused of speeding at 70 miles per hour by State Highway Patrolman S. E. Inskeep.

In addition, Dana Hayden Jr., 26, of Columbus, forfeited $3 bond in the court when he failed to answer an accusation of running a stop light at Court and Walnut streets.

Glare Of Ice Is Nuisance; Most County Schools Shut For Safety

A sheath of ice which blanketed Pickaway County last week-end and continued Monday was considered more of a nuisance than harmful.

Freezing rain made highways in the county a glare of ice Sunday, slowing traffic to a near standstill.

Most of Pickaway County's rural schools were closed Monday because of icy roads, only two of the 17 buildings remaining open.

Major highways leading from Circleville were littered with autos which had skidded from the road Sunday night, although no one was reported injured in the minor mishaps.

And, while Circleville's sidewalks were exceptionally treacherous Sunday and Monday, no one was reported injured by falls.

Circleville schools continued to operate Monday with attendance figures only slightly below normal.

SUPERINTENDENT Frank Fischer pointed out that a total of 271 youngsters were absent, for the most part those from Wayne and Washington Townships who are brought into Circleville by bus.

County Superintendent George D. McDowell said only Darby Township and New Holland schools elected to remain in operation Monday. The other 15 schools closed because of hazardous conditions for the buses.

Local wreckers, some of the same which pitched in during "the big snow" last Thanksgiving, were on duty patrolling the major highways Sunday night to pull autos from ditches.

And, while conditions were extremely slippery, neither city nor county police were called during the period to investigate an accident. Traffic was slow on the highways, many persons electing to stay home rather than risk driving.

Circleville's office of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. reported that it had escaped serious damage from ice. Although the ice formed coatings over the wires only three minor lines were reported "down."

Meanwhile, the county may have to spend the next three days under its coating of ice.

THE WEATHERMAN reports that little respite is expected from the cold for at least three days, while some scattered snow flurries will add to the slippery conditions.

Zero temperatures are expected in some parts of the state Monday night.

In view of the frigid forecast following last weekend's blast of ice, the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. has curtailed its industrial gas supply again. The gas company plans to increase its cut of last week from 25 million to about 60 million cubic feet.

Army's Field Strength Third Better Than In '45

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—The strength of the Army's field forces is 33 percent higher today than during World War II and their firepower has increased 50 percent.

The drive to make full use of available manpower also shows that more combat troops are being sent to front line units than during the last war and the ratio of service elements has dropped.

These developments in the nation's quest for a 1.3 million-man army were outlined by Brig. Gen. D. A. Ogden, chief of organization and training, who reported that some troops also will be employed for double duty.

According to present plans, anti-aircraft units will be transformed into field artillery when the Airforce gains air supremacy.

Volunteer 'Army' Waging Fight To Defeat Polio

During the last two weeks an army of volunteers 560,000 strong, has been in the field waging a war against infantile paralysis.

In every town and village of the land these men and women, boys and girls, have leagued together under the banner of the March of Dimes, on behalf of the many thousands stricken by polio in 1950 and prior years.

Fighting polio takes money. Lots of money. Since the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was founded in 1938 it has expended for patient care and epidemic aid some $102 million in March of Dimes funds.

"Locally," according to Don D. Henkle, director of the Pickaway County March of Dimes campaign, "one hundred volunteers are at work for the drive. Since the chapter was established, it has spent $20,442.58 to help local patients. Let us give freely to conquer this vicious enemy. Let us lift the fear and tragedy of polio from the minds and hearts of the American people."

Wage And Price Control Chief Named For Ohio

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29 — Sydney A. Hesse, lawyer and former counsel with the Office of Price Stabilization, took over today as chief of the wage and price controls in Cleveland.

The appointment, made by the OPS headquarters in Washington, is on an acting basis for 30 days. Most OPS appointments become permanent after the one month period.

John P. Butler, one time executive assistant to Mayor Thomas A. Burke, is the acting chief regional counsel and John B. Cummins, on loan from the Navy's general accounting office, is the regional administration officer for OPS.

As head of Region 6, including Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, Hesse has charge of three district offices in Cincinnati, Detroit, and Louisville.

Hesse said the regional OPS staff has not had time to consider either enforcement or price and wage adjustments.

Teen Tips

Did you know that——There are several good reliable medicated ointments on the market to help heal troublesome pimples? (Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me at this paper for their names.)

—If your hair is oily, it's a good idea to skip oil or cream shampoos? They're for dry hair. Your oily locks need a plain liquid shampoo or castile soap. If you use pure, mild soap, flake thin bits off the cake with a kitchen knife, add a cup of water to them and heat it on the stove until the soap flakes dissolve, forming a liquid. Use this for your shampoos; it's easier to remove than cake-soap rubbed directly on your hair.

—Soap is the best cleanser for oily faces? Skip the face creams that Mother uses until later. Right now, it'll take soap-and-water scrubs every morning, after school and at bedtime to keep excess oil from clogging the pore-openings of your skin, forming blackheads or pimples.

—Baking soda is good tooth-whitener? Brush your teeth with it occasionally and watch them sparkle!

—Brushing your teeth up and down from gums to biting edge is correct, but it must be done gently? If you brush too hard, it can help cause receding gums.

—You can help keep oily hair fresher and softer between shampoos by giving it a vigorous rub with a turkish towel? "Polish" each strand to remove surface oil.

"IN WINTER...DRAIN AND REPLACE ENGINE OIL MORE OFTEN"

WHEN IT'S COLD OUTSIDE...

Your car engine manufactures as much as a gallon of water for every gallon of gasoline burned. Most of this water passes out through the exhaust pipe. Some slips past your piston rings into the crankcase.

IT RAINS INSIDE YOUR ENGINE...

In the summer, high engine temperatures keep most of this "blow-by" moisture from condensing. In winter, cold engines, shorter trips and slower driving leave the crankcase cold—ideal for condensation. When it's cold outside, it literally rains inside your crankcase!

CONTAMINATES YOUR OIL...

This condensed water drips into your oil. Unburned fuel from extra cold-weather "choking", together with by-products of combustion enter the oil. Oil, water and unburned gasoline are churned together into a thick, gummy substance called cold-sludge.

AND HERE'S THE RESULT!

Cold sludge plugs oil screens, piston rings and oil lines, preventing proper oil flow and lubrication. It increases oil consumption. Hurts winter gasoline mileage. Leads to engine damage and repair bills. There's only one simple, effective solution—get the contaminated oil out of the crankcase often in winter.

BIG CITY CHALLENGE
ON THE theory that the big northern cities are crucial in presidential elections, Republicans have decided to take more of a hand in the outcome of municipal elections. In their heyday the GOP controlled big cities like Chicago, Philadelphia and others. The Republicans lost them in 1932 and with them went the presidential elections.

In Chicago next April Robert L. Hunter, a lawyer, will be the Republican opponent of Martin H. Kennelly, incumbent Democratic mayor. Senator Taft of Ohio and Senator Dirksen of Illinois will be among the top-line speakers in the campaign in support of Hunter. Republican slogan is: "Start the tide that will put a Republican in the city hall in 1951 and a Republican in the White House in 1952."

Speakers will tell the voters that Chicago's Democratic organization uses its power to maintain in office "the worst national government ever inflicted on a free people."

Republican hope is based on the fact that Dirksen was elected senator over Lucas last November by a revolt in Chicago against the Democratic machine.

If the Republicans can pry some of the big city machines away from the Democrats they will be strong contenders in any election. Otherwise they will continue to battle upstream against odds.

THE AGED SUCCESSORS
WHILE no new proposals for the presidential succession are likely, it is a fact that there is some concern about the next chief executive should anything happen to President Truman.

Vice President Barkley, No. 1 in the succession, is 73 and said to be showing his age. He overdid himself in the campaign and his friends are urging him to take a long rest. Speaker Rayburn of the House of Representatives, No. 2 in the succession, is 68 years old. Senator McKellar, president pro tempore of the Senate and No. 3 in the succession, is 81. President Truman, now 66, is himself younger than any of his possible successors.

Political parties would do well to give more consideration to younger men in selecting their vice presidential nominees. They should select vigorous men of presidential stature on the chance that they might become president. And Congress needn't elect speakers and president pro tempores on the basis of age. There are many younger men who would fill those offices well and be in position to bear the presidential burden if need be.

The manner in which ancient party hacks are being placed in line for the presidency is not good public procedure.

Give people enough money and everybody would buy many things.

Senator's Plan Would Use Disabled to Ease Shortage | Reveal Soviets Have Five Battleships Now Building

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Senator Paul H. Douglas (D), Illinois, says he plans to ask the new Congress to approve a $5 to $7 million program to bring disabled persons into the labor market.

The Labor department has warned repeatedly that if the United States is to go into all-out mobilization without a manpower shortage, it must employ many more women and disabled persons than are customarily in the labor force.

Douglas will use this argument to push his program through Congress. He said that even with the use of persons now disabled, there may be a labor shortage.

The senator explains that his program will aid persons removed from the working forces by sickness as well as by industrial accidents which he said take less of a toll of the work force than such illnesses as arthritis and rheumatic heart disease.

Only a strong United States Navy, the intelligence report warns, would be able to keep these potential atomic bomb launchers far enough away from our shores.

On last Dec. 19, Janet's Fighting Ships estimated Stalin's fleet as two battleships, 16 heavy cruisers, 100 destroyers and 350 late-type

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

It is not often that I go to movies, but recently I went to see a picture, "The Steel Helmet," under troublesome circumstances. My friend and colleague, Victor Riesel, first denounced this picture as containing distortions and evasions which he suspected of being aimed at presenting the United States and our forces in Korea unfavorably. Many have picked up that line without seeing the picture, which I am sure is an unfair way of doing things. Reading the script and not seeing the picture is not businesslike.

I saw the picture and it is a good presentation of the American character in its numerous complexities. I found the sergeant, a normal, tough, hard-bitten Yank, precisely the kind of stuff that has won our wars. The fact that a Negro and a Nisei are also heroes in no manner upsets me. There are nearly 13 million Negroes in this country and they play an important role in our affairs, and the Negro troops in Korea have done remarkably well.

The Nisei are Americans born of Japanese parents, and a more devoted group of citizens is hard to find. They fought in Italy in World War II; they are now fighting in Korea. A Nisei hero can be substantiated in World War II and in the Korean war.

I write this not to boost a picture, but rather to express myself against labeling everything Communist which a person does not like. As much as I dislike Marxism, there are objectionable things which are not Marxist. A motion picture may be stupid without being Marxist.

To find a Communist implication in "The Steel Helmet" is straining at a gnat. And it serves no purpose. I know of no speech that more fully and decently expresses the American view of the sanctity of a prisoner of war than that delivered by the lieutenant in the Buddhist temple when the sergeant lost his temper and killed the North Korean.

I saw another picture, also as a preview, that did not make me so happy. "The Magnificent Yankee" is pretentious of being a biography of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. It told me nothing about Holmes, overweening influence on our jurisprudence, nothing of his fundamental theories.

All I got out of it was that Theodore Roosevelt was angry with him; that Holmes loved Mrs. Holmes, which should not be unusual among married folks; that Holmes had a lot of secretaries all of whom, including Alger Hiss, who is excluded from the picture, made good.

There is a sequence involving Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whom I knew in those years. In the picture, Brandeis lacks that combination of dignity and humility which was his heritage. I cannot imagine why he was dragged in at all if he was not to be made to stand forth as a towering intellect.

DIET AND HEALTH

Periodic Attacks of Asthma

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
ASTHMA, a condition in which there are periodic attacks of difficult breathing, is known to have a number of different causes but in most cases it represents an allergic reaction. This means that the attack is brought on by the patient's oversensitivity to some food or to something he has inhaled, such as a particular type of dust, mold, or pollen. In other cases, the patient may be sensitive to bacteria within his own body or, possibly to their products.

Treatment, therefore, must always include a search for the substances to which the patient is sensitive so that harmful contact with them may be eliminated. This often can be done by studying the patient's diet, and by carrying out skin tests, that is, injecting extracts of various substances into the skin and noting whether a red reaction occurs at the point of injection.

Sensitive to Pollens
Air filtering and air conditioning are of value in certain cases, particularly those instances in which the patient is sensitive to pollens from plants.

If the complete avoidance of contact with the substances to which the patient is sensitive does not control the condition, injections of gradually-increasing amounts of extracts from these various substances may be tried. If reactions to the injections occur, the giving of epinephrine by injection under the skin is necessary and, of course, the dosage of the extract must be cut down.

In an acute attack of asthma, an injection of epinephrine under the skin often brings relief. The epinephrine may also be breathed into the lungs and, in some instances, is helpful when taken by mouth.

Another drug, known as aminophylline, is given by injection into a vein. Sometimes an attack of asthma may be so severe that it is necessary to put the patient in a hospital. This makes it possible to eliminate dust, feathers, flowers, and similar substances. The room is kept scrupulously clean, using a damp mop or cloth, and avoiding strong disinfectants. Air conditioning and pollen filters may be employed in the room. The patient is kept quiet and visitors are not permitted. Oxygen administered by means of an oxygen tent or a face mask is helpful.

Sometimes it may be necessary to give ether in the form of an enema, that is, injection into the lower bowel.

Fluid Intake
Injections of glucose in salt solution into a vein are used to keep up the patient's fluid intake. Opiates are not permitted. However, the barbiturate drugs may be of value. Chloral hydrate, which is also a quieting preparation, is used with benefit.

The antihistamine preparations, too, are symptom-relieving in some cases.

Recently, ACTH, a hormone, which has been found valuable in arthritis, has been tried in asthma and found to give exceptionally good results in a number of cases. However, further trial of this treatment is necessary before its exact value may be determined.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
D.B.: What is the cause of hard skin around the finger nails? I cut it off every few weeks but it comes back.

Answer: This condition may be due to a fungus infection around the nails. Of course repeated cutting away of the skin may tend to make it grow back thicker than it did before.

It would be a good plan to consult your physician about this matter.

SYNOPSIS
Was Glendon Coldfield a suicide or was he murdered by a member of his very conservative and literary family, to conceal a family scandal? That is the question which the victim's widow, Sylvia Coldfield, asks bibliophile-detective Henry Gamadge to answer. Gamadge plans a bold strategy to rescue Sylvia from the family surveillance under which she is literally held prisoner. In the dusty old shop of J. Hall, collector of rare books and letters, Gamadge turns up a clue which may prove motive for the Coldfield murder. With his trusted friend, Harold, Gamadge drives from New York to the Coldfield Hudson valley home. They find the family assembled at dinner. Getting into the house by means of a ruse, Gamadge "smokes" Sylvia as she flies out of the dining room. They drive back to Gamadge's apartment where Mrs. Gamadge promises to look after Sylvia. Next day they are in call on the Coldfield lawyer. Meanwhile, Sylvia reveals the details of her husband's passing.

CHAPTER TWELVE
"MRS. COLDFIELD, you know there's a better theory than your charitable one," Gamadge declared. "Can you really believe that a single Coldfield is a concealed maniac? Which of them would fill that bill?"

"I only thought of Gerorgette at all because she's nervous and high strung and takes violent prejudices, and because—I suppose because she never liked me very much. Susan—it's impossible, she's so happy. Ira hasn't a nerve in his body. Ames is a utterly satisfied with himself and life, and he's amusing."

"In other words, all the Coldfields are sane."

"And I shouldn't have called Gerorgette anything else, if I had any choice at all."

"We'll cut out guess work," said Gamadge, stubbing out his cigarette. "We'll dig up a motive for murder somehow."

"There simply isn't—"

"You've considered only two motives—hate and gain. There are others. Let's draw on my dark experience."

"Mr. Gamadge, was that why you arranged to go up there and talk to them tomorrow? Because you thought—"

"I confess I wanted a look at them."

"But I told you—" she was distressed. "I only wanted to get away."

"You didn't warn the family against anybody but a maniac—whom they all know doesn't exist among them. You didn't warn them that there's a deliberate mass-murderer up there, and what's more, a poisoner—the kind of murderer that goes on and on; repeats the pattern, all right! It's too easy. How will you feel when it happens again?"

"Nobody would dare!"

"Wouldn't they? I'll tell you something for your comfort, though just one of those people get in a jam, or what they think of as a real jam, and they'll trip themselves up. You won't have to do it for them."

She smoothed the yellow fur of the cat sleeping on her knees. "Glen—one of them killed him. But they're his own people, and I never kept his door shut at night."

Try, Stop Me

Stanton Griffis, ex-Ambassador to the Argentine, says that in the part of Maine he hails from, the natives are just born traders, and grow up "doing" what comes naturally" to them. For example, he tells of one farmer who spent the long winter fashioning wooden back-scratchers, and came to Boston in the Spring with a wagonful to sell. He was laughed at for his pains. "Go back to your farm, you hick," laughed one trader. "Back-scratchers have been a drug on the market for twenty years."

That very afternoon, however, an Egyptian sahib, swathed in native raiment, came to the trader and said he was commissioned by his government to purchase a thousand back-scratchers. "Everybody is clamoring for them in Cairo," he explained. "I'll have 'em for you tomorrow," promised the amazed trader. He dug up the Maine farmer, who fortunately had parked his wagon right across the street, and purchased his entire supply of back-scratchers for a very fair sum.

That evening, the farmer returned the Arab outfit he had rented from a theatrical costumer, and drove contentedly back to Maine.

Women Too Good-Looking; Fashion Master Believes; Spring Colors To Be Gay

Style Trends Are Outlined

"The trouble with American fashion is the women are too good-looking!"

That's the opinion of Walter Florell, milliner and philosopher of New York City.

He said: "American women start out with so much good looks that they don't find it necessary to develop aids and artifices of fashion."

"They're pretty. They know it. And it often makes them sleepy to style."

Florell pointed out that since the end of World War II, too many U.S. gals have allowed themselves to fall into a pattern of unimaginative, rather tailored dressing—and been "beaten badly" in a style sense by the French women, who are forced to use imagination and femininity to overcome a shortage of real beauty and money.

"But now," he said, pointing to his larger, more femininely powdered and frilled hats, "American women are coming back to their senses and dressing for men again."

"In times of emergency, the American woman is the first to draw her style-sword!"

The master of millinery predicts hats will be flowery and fruity, come Spring.

He said: "In spite of reports to the contrary, posies will continue to be popular."

The specialist in high-fashion hats showed a Spring and Summer collection heavy with fruits, vegetables and braided straw designs.

Hats were large, small and medium-sized. Most popular colors were pinks, violets, mauves and purples—the high-style colors of the year.

As for shape: Most any shape goes—just so it's set forward on the head, to shelter the brow in a mysterious shadow.

Speaking of coats, Florell said, "A suit or coat is never too tailored to be doctored up with embroidery this Spring."

The military motif—done in bullion embroidery—is coming back. Along with crests, monograms and purely decorative scrollwork fashioned of beading or braid.

This Spring, it won't be only the breast pocket that gets a glittery emblem either. Designers are putting embroideries on lapels, back belts, buttonhole tabs, and hip pockets.

The most frequently seen color schemes in tailored-clothes embroidery will be white beading or braid on dark silk or linen suits, pastel embroidery on velvet colors of Chesterfield coats; and gold and white beadwork on either light or dark backgrounds.

He added that "if government requirements don't interfere, next Fall's coats will be big and bulky. A woman would be smart to keep this in mind when she's choosing her Spring wardrobe."

He predicts that because wool supplies will be limited—and rising in cost—bulky coatings will be high-fashion and high-price next Fall. On both sides of the Atlantic, smart women with well-padded clothing budgets will be dressing in coats with plenty of pile.

Such coats are available this Spring. Several manufacturers are offering doormat and poodle cloths (thick, brushy fabrics), chinchilla cloth (a material as soft and heavy as fur), bouclés (fabrics with curly faces), and snaggy fleeces (rugged, sturdy fabrics).

A selection among any of these cloths would result in a wise, thrifty fashion bet that will look even more chic and costly by next Fall.

In discussing materials and colors he declared that "plaids, checks and polka-dots—these three—and the greatest of these are checks."

"In suits, coats, dresses and accessories, the trio of classic prints will be seen in ensembles that can go out from early morning to early-the-next-morning."

"But the plaids should be bold and the checks should be small. And the classiest polka-dots should be fragile and quaint as a stereopticon slide of Grandma."

Florell believes that the most popular 1951 colors for the three patterns will be combinations of black and white, mauve and purple, blue and black, and orange-yellow-brown.

Checks are expected to be an all-out favorite, especially in monotonous which eliminate, rather than accentuate, an overabundance of figure.

On the whole it appears that fashionwise—if women follow Florell's predictions—Spring will be very gay this year.

"I had heard so many stories about the functional middle-age period peculiar to women—I hoped I'd escape such symptoms. But I didn't. I found myself terribly embarrassed by hot flushes—I suffered such restless nights, and I could sense myself getting irritable and cranky—due to this cause."

"My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. I can understand now why he called it 'the woman's friend.' Pinkham's Compound gives me amazing relief. ## DESIGNERS GIVE TIPS

4-Room House Furnished Smartly For Only $1,800

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—All it takes to furnish a four-room house today is good taste, good sense—and $1,800!

Two of the nation's best-known furniture designers have collaborated to prove that in spite of high living costs, the average family can have good modern design today and still stay within its budget.

Together, they have just completed a four-room model house that contains the basic furniture essential for a couple with one child. The 29 well-designed furniture pieces included cost altogether less than $1,800.

The "house," laid out in a New York furniture showroom, contains gay, fanciful dividers that serve to separate the living room, dining room, bedroom, and child's room.

Everything is included from circus prints to a pink wall. The atmosphere has a colorful, warm quality rarely associated with functional, modern design.

MOST EXPENSIVE of the rooms is the $826 living room including a foam rubber sofa bed, two paneled room dividers, a desk, a coffee table, an incidental folding table, an armchair, a second lounge chair, and a desk chair.

The sofa bed with its springs and bolsters is the biggest priced

'Extravagance' Cited In New Federal Budget

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29—The president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce declared today that President Truman's proposed budget shows he is determined to add "billions on an extravagant civilian welfare state program."

C. I. Weaver, head of the Ohio Chamber, contended that the federal government is ready for fabulous spending in unessential civilian and non-defense operations during the coming year.

Weaver based his statement on an analysis of the Truman budget message. The President asked Congress for $71.6 billion for expenditures in the fiscal year of 1951-1952, and $16 billion in new taxes.

Weaver said the President's "extravagant civilian welfare state program is unwise, unbalanced and a further grave threat to an already staggered national financial stability."

Unnecessary new domestic measures sought by the President, he said, included compulsory health insurance, federal aid to education, socialized medicine, further expansion of Social Security and expansion of federally owned industrial and electric power facilities. Others, he said, included extension of controls of agriculture, passage of the controversial civil rights legislation and increased authority of the United States Department of Labor over state-administered unemployment compensation systems.

Services Set

MANSFIELD, Jan. 29—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Dr. Claude C. Wadsworth, 64-year-old Mansfield veterinarian who died of a heart attack Saturday while making a call at a farm north of here.

piece in the house—$315. The room dividers, 48 to 59 inches, are made of birch with storage shelves, drawers a drop-front desk, and colorful paneled sections. One costs $131, the other $133.

The desk, with its birch top and colored panels and drawers, retails for $108. One arm chair with foam rubber cushioning is listed at $143, while the other molded plastic one costs only $33. The desk chair and two tables add up to another $71.

The two designers have managed to furnish the entire dining room at a cost of only $202. The room has a 34-by-54-inch table with detachable legs, four chairs and an incidental folding table with a wood veneer top.

The master bedroom ($318) is up-to-date with its storage headboard at the top of the double-bed and a bedside table that can be adjusted in height and swung around to convenient positions.

CONVENTIONAL dresser-drawer pieces have been omitted. In their place are two sliding-door storage cabinets with birch tops and neutral panels. Only other pieces in the room are two lounge chairs, one of molded plywood, the other of molded plastic.

But, most appealing is the child's room with everything sized to fit the small fry of the family.

The room at $297 includes a daybed with an innerspring mattress covered with neutral fabric. A low round table is in the center of the room. A utility stool goes with it.

Best of all, the walls are lined with two open storage cabinets and one sliding door storage cabinet. The pieces are window-height and will hold all the toys that make a child's world go round.

County Credited With $525 In '50 Heart Drive

Contributions from Pickaway County residents for last year's Heart Fund drive totalled $525.21, it has been announced by the Central Ohio Heart Association, Columbus.

The 1951 Heart Fund drive, which opens here Thursday, will be headed by Dr. Walter Heine, chairman for this county's fight against heart diseases.

Nearly 10 million Americans have some form of heart or blood vessel disease, according to the drive chairman.

Scientists are still searching for the causes of 90 percent of the heart diseases—hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, rheumatic fever, it was added.

All funds contributed to the Heart Fund will be used in the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of heart diseases.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—The Pinkerton Detective Agency disclosed today that a New York jeweler left $50,000 worth of unset diamonds on a Fifth Avenue bus when he got off Jan. 20.

The agency said Irving Meyer had the stones in three packets in a leather portfolio. He sat on the upper deck and read his newspaper, the portfolio beside him.

When he got off he took the newspaper, but left the Portfolio. The agency offered a $5000 reward for the return of the stones.

House Expected To Follow Senate In Junking Lausche License Idea

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29—The Ohio house of representatives is expected to follow the lead of the senate this week in junking Governor Lausche's one-auto-license plate proposal to continue the use of both 1951 plates for the next three or four years.

The 99th Ohio General Assembly begins its fifth week of sessions tonight, with prospects that the auto license extender—designed to save 1,500 tons of steel a year for the war effort—will have become the first bill to be passed by both houses when the legislature winds up its work week Thursday noon.

The bill passed the senate unanimously after a strict party-line vote—25 Republicans against seven Democrats—junked Lausche's one-plate proposal in favor of the two-plate GOP plan. It was referred by the house reference committee to the standing committee on highways last Thursday, and the highways group will give it its first house hearing tomorrow night.

Since the committee is Republican-controlled by a 16-to-7 margin, it seems reasonable to assume that any Democratic proposal to change back to the Lausche plan is doomed to defeat.

The measure carries an emergency clause since it must become law before the plates go on general sale March 1.

Lausche, who contends that the plates will not stand up under more than two years of weathering, proposed to use one of the already-prepared 1951 plates this year; continue its use with a windshield sticker in 1952; issue the second plate in 1953, and issue a second sticker to go with it in 1954.

The senate GOP majority, however, preferred to believe that two plates were necessary for proper law enforcement. The approved substitute would issue both plates this year, and use them through 1954 if necessary with the use of a windshield sticker each succeeding year.

The house elections committee also has a busy night scheduled tomorrow. It will hear two bills to amend the election laws regarding independent candidates.

One measure, by Rep. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) would increase from one percent to ten percent of the vote cast in the last election for governor the number of signatures required to qualify as an independent candidate.

The other, by Rep. Bishop Kilpatrick (D-Trumbull) would require independents to file for office at the same time the regular party hopefuls file for a place on the primary ballot.

The Kilpatrick proposal would eliminate the growing practice on the part of some defeated candidates of filing for some other office as an independent after they have been defeated in a party primary.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

The present and steadily-growing Canadian contribution to the defense of Democracy in a free world threatened by Communism was underscored by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to Ottawa on the last leg of his Atlantic pact military mission.

Because of its huge geographical area, the comparatively sparse population of Canada's vast expanses is sometimes forgotten in measuring up what the Democratic nations can and will do to save themselves.

In proportion to its population, Canada's contribution is formidable to say the least.

The population of Canada numbers more than 13.5 million. This is an increase of some two millions over the census of 1941. World War II and the lure of rich undeveloped areas combined to bring about a tremendous increase of emigration to Canada within the last decade.

BUT THIS STILL is less than twice the number of people who live in New York City alone.

Yet from this meagre reservoir of manpower, government and military officials in Ottawa were able with merited pride to enumerate what has been done and what is to be done in the future.

There is a standing army of 22 thousand men, all recruited on a basis that is entirely voluntary and this is being stepped up to the 25 thousand strength authorized by law.

Stationed at Fort Lewis in the state of Washington there is a special force of 10 thousand men—ready for service in Korea or under Gen. Eisenhower in Europe.

A Canadian air force fighter squadron is already stationed in Britain with many more squadrons to join it before the year is over.

Canada has offered its modern, well-equipped facilities for the training of British and European operation. Canada's part in such a cooperative Commonwealth training program in World War II played a large part in achieving royal air force superiority over Marshal Hermann Goering's Luftwaffe.

The dominion already has voted $300 million for arms for Europe. This sum is doubly great when it is remembered that in 1946 Canada advanced $1.25 billion in cash to Britain, enabling the United Kingdom to buy Canadian export products at a time when dollars were as scarce in the Bank of England as holdup men.

CANADA HAS sent equipment for a full division of troops to Holland.

And she is prepared to manufacture at her own expense radar and wireless, aircraft and guns for the buildup of European armed defenses thousands of miles away.

The Canadian contributions are particularly important because of the fact that Canada is of course the first line of defense for the United States against any possible Soviet attack by way of Alaska.

The Canadian government and defense ministry realized that while helping in the defense of Europe she must take extreme care not to weaken her own military position at home, for her own sake as well as the United States.

But this great new country—a dominion of the British Commonwealth only since 1867, has displayed an enormous capacity.

The home front is a hardworking one. Canadian fliers are among the best in the world. Scientific achievements are tremendous and this is reflected in the terrific strides that Canada has made in atomic research and development of the most modern defense equipment in the supersonic and other fields.

It may be true that used-up soil and physical handicaps make it difficult for the countries of Continental Europe to produce great armies with courage and endurance.

Yet in the final analysis, armies are always a certain percentage of a population and the most populous nation, in time of war, is supposed to have the most formidable army.

That of Canada is not great in numbers in comparison with those of Russia and the satellite nations, for example.

But it is tough and well-trained and it demonstrates, along with the other factor, that this dominion has no doubt of its future destiny and is determined that nothing will thwart its fulfillment.

Ford's New Key-Turn Starting turns on your engine when you turn the ignition key. No more stretching for a foot pedal... no more reaching for the starter button!

Ford's Automatic Posture Control Touch a lever and the front seat moves forward automatically—rising and tilting forward for shorter drivers. Move it back—it adjusts for taller drivers.

Ford's Automatic Mileage Maker is a 3-way combustion, ignition, and carburetion system that squeezes the last ounce of power out of every drop of gas. It gives you high compression performance with regular gas... amazing savings with any gas!

Ford's "Luxury Lounges" Interiors are designed to stay in style... to last through the years ahead. You'll find a new "Safety-Glow" Control Panel (with "Glow-Cup" Control Illumination and "Channeled" Instrument Cluster which make night driving easier—safer). on the '51 FORD!

Ford's Automatic Ride Control makes bumps disappear like magic... turns rough roads into highways... makes driving easy on you, easy on the car itself. It's a new, exclusive Ford development that self-adjusts the firmness or softness of your ride to fit the conditions of the road!

It teams up new ride features like Ford's advanced "Hydra-Coil" Front Springs, new "Viscous Control" Shock Absorbers, and new Variable-Rate Rear Spring Suspension into bump-grazing magic. It literally "irona" out the road for you!

Turkey Growers Can Do OK

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29 — The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said today that Ohio turkey growers are making plans this year to repeat the 1950 crop of 1,305,000 birds.

The service pointed out that although turkey prices last fall were slightly lower than in 1949, profits still were considered to be sufficiently good.

With the demand for meats of all kinds expected to be strong throughout 1950, the service predicted that turkey prices will be moderately higher.

Ice Blanket May Cause Junior Tourney Delay

A blanket of ice which completely covered Pickaway County Monday was expected to set the county junior high school basketball tournament back one day.

George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, said Monday that the quarterfinals of the junior contest probably will be held Tuesday night instead of Monday as originally scheduled.

"In view of the fact that most of our schools are closed Monday," McDowell said, "I recommend the quarterfinals be held Tuesday and the semifinals Thursday."

Next Saturday's tournament finals would be unaffected by the recommended change.

EDUCATOR GIVES VIEWS

Athletic Setup At OSU Labeled 'Horrible Mess'

TOLEDO, Jan. 29—A Toledo board of education official was ready to carry the fight for "legal rights of students at Ohio State" into the state legislature today unless the university's "horrible athletic mess" was cleared up.

In a letter to the editor of the university's campus publication, "The Lantern," Grant Murray, vice-president of the Toledo board of education, said that some of the Ohio State alumni "are getting too big for their britches," and students are being deprived "of the right to the pursuit of happiness."

Murray declared that as a member of the Toledo board for 16 years, he was familiar with the legal rights of students in tax-supported institutions — "rights that are fully protected by the general code of Ohio."

"I can assure you that if the students' legal rights continue to be ignored at Ohio State," Murray said, "there will be an airing of the whole situation in the halls of the state legislature."

"IF PRESENT policies are continued at Ohio State they can lead only to disaster, a tragic situation that could only be handled by cleaning out the entire administration of that great institution."

Murray asserted he knew why "crack Ohio high school athletes don't go to Ohio State. They are aware of the horrible mess in athletics there and want no part of it." He said:

"The only way you can judge any school," he said, "is by its record in handling athletics. I believe about everyone will agree that Ohio State's record is zero in this respect."

"There must be a lot of Indian blood in state's alumni," Murray continued, "for they don't seem to be happy unless they're scalping a coach and sending him to the happy hunting grounds."

Murray stated one of the "great troubles at Ohio State stems from the fact that the same man holds the posts of athletic director and director of physical education."

The Toledo school official stressed he stands ready to aid University President Howard Bevis if he "will assume his full responsibilities" as the school's president.

"That means that Mr. Bevis will become the boss," Murray concluded, "and cease delegating his authority to the people who are ruining Ohio State and causing a national scandal."

MEANWHILE, in Columbus, Ohio State's busy coach-selection committee was thrown for a loss by an announcement that John Carroll University Coach Herb Eisele will not show up for his interview scheduled.

Eisele left the Buckeye coach-hunters high and dry by wiring yesterday:

"I have concluded that my immediate future rests in Cleveland and with John Carroll university. May I respectfully request withdrawal of my application and my inability to meet with your athletic board tomorrow."

OSU Athletic Director Dick Larkins admitted "surprise" over the sudden change of heart, but had no comment.

That leaves Ohio State with two more known candidates to be screened for the post vacated by Minnesota Coach Wesley Fessler.

Miami Coach Woody Hayes and Springfield High School Mentor Jim McDonald meet with the big five Friday and Saturday.

Latest to be interviewed by the Buck athletic spokesmen were Drake University Coach Warren Gaer, Massillon High Magician Chuck Mather and Pro Cleveland Browns Mentor Paul Brown.

Gaer met the athletic surveyors earlier last week with Mather being interviewed Saturday for more than three hours at a luncheon session. Brown met the entire athletic board for four hours in a closed evening session following Mather.

Larkins, in refusing to disclose anything about the meeting with Brown, said Ohio State was maintaining a ruling prohibiting the release of any information on interview proceedings.

Sophomore Due To Get Chance For OSU '3

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29—Tonight is sophomore night—or so it appears—as the Buckeyes, fresh from an initial Western Conference victory, take on Northwestern in Columbus.

Buck Coach Floyd Stahl indicated yesterday that Jack Jones, the man he thought was greatly responsible for Ohio State's 58-49 upset victory over Michigan State Saturday night, would be in tonight's starting lineup.

Stahl summed up Jones' performance and State's game Saturday:

"Jones gave us the key contribution for the evening. He scored when we needed points, rebounded well, and was just a general handy man all over the floor."

"It was certainly grand to get on the victory wagon for a change," Stahl said referring to Saturday's game which saw an end to the Bucks' seven-game losing streak and their desertion from the Big Ten basement with a 1-3 mark.

Stahl is wary of Northwestern's center, Ray Ragelis, who poured in 26 points against the Buckeyes the last time the two teams met in Evanston. Ohio lost that game 81-75. Northwestern defeated Purdue Saturday 97-79 with Ragelis dumping in 36 markers.

Janowicz Due To Get Trophy

COLUMBUS, Jan. 29 — Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's famed All-America back, will receive the Chicago Tribune award tonight for being chosen the most valuable player in the Big Ten.

The presentation will be made between halves of the Ohio State-Northwestern game in Columbus fairgrounds coliseum.

Rev. Bob Richards Joins Ranks Of 15-Footers In Pole Vault

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 — With the Rev. Bob Richards, who's now become the second man in history to clear 15 feet in the pole vault, it's strictly a case of praise the Lord and pass the gillnet.

Gillnet is the name of the lightweight metal alloy which goes into the pole Richards used as he cleared 15 feet, one inch in the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The 24-year-old ex-University of Illinois divinity student thus crashed the fabled inside office of Cornelius Warmerdam, who cleared 15 feet 43 times during his career.

Warmerdam's record is 15 ft. 8 1/2 inches, but there's no limit to what Richards will try now that he has scaled the magic barrier after five solid years of trying.

"The Lord helped me do it," Richards said.

County Teams Have 11 Games For This Week

A total of 11 games are scheduled for Pickaway County basketball teams this week as the county teams near the end of their 1951 season.

Most of the county teams will have only one more game on tap following this week's activities, while the final regular games of the 1951 season will be played Feb. 9, just three days before this year's county tourney begins.

Monroe's Indian basketball team has a clear shot at this year's league title with only one obstacle ahead of it.

The Indian team has collected eight wins in nine starts so far this season while each of the other county league squads has suffered at least two setbacks.

Monroe will have its final test of the season Feb. 6 when Ashville's Broncos invade. A win over Ashville will give it the league toga, while a loss would mean a possible tie.

Darby and New Holland are tied for second place in the loop to date with records of six wins in eight starts each, while Ashville is fourth with five wins in eight starts.

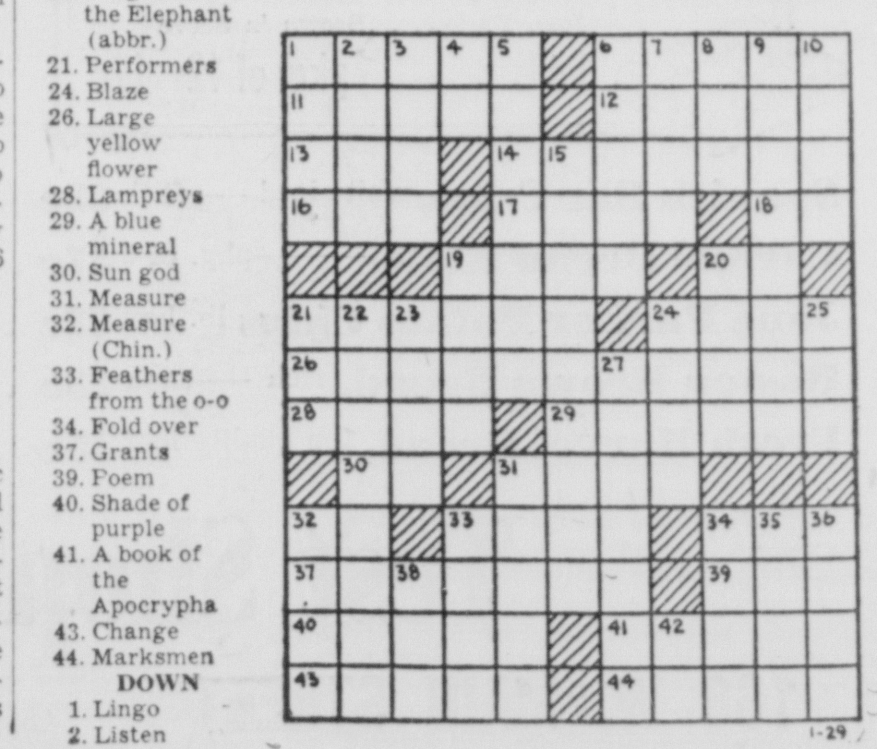

THIS WEEK'S county cage card calls for five games Tuesday night and six contests, five of them league matches, for Friday night.

Wesleyan Event Set For Feb. 10

Vocal, Instrument Concerts Booked

Several high school musicians from Pickaway County will attend the annual high school music festival to be sponsored in Delaware Feb. 10 by the department of music of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Supervisors who will accompany the Pickaway youngsters are Truman N. Eberly of Circleville high school, Charles Shell of Ashville, Miss Marie L. Anderson of Walnut, Miss Mary Hamilton of Jackson, Everett W. Mehrlay of Ashville and Miss Doris M. Wells of Monroe.

Guest conductors for the festival will be Alfred Vorherr, band director at Dover high school, band; Thelbert Evans, supervisor of music for Lake-wood school, chorus; and John Farinacci, instrumental director of Cleveland Heights high school, orchestra.

Band and orchestra players will register at 9 a. m. after which they will try out for places in the festival bands and orchestra. Because of the number of delegates this year, there will be three bands instead of the usual one.

THE OHIO WESLEYAN band, under the direction of Charles Thompson, and orchestra, under the direction of Romine Hamilton, will present a concert at 11 a. m.

Chorus members will register by 1 p. m. and start rehearsal at 1:30. There will be some 375 youths in the three bands, 560 in the chorus, and 125 in the orchestra.

The musical groups will climax the day-long activities with concert at 8 p. m. in Gray chapel. Parents and friends of participating members are being invited to attend.

Festival co-chairmen are Robert E. Bowles and Jay R. Raven, of the Ohio Wesleyan music department.

Shoeless Gunmen Grab $15,000 In Jewels

CLEVELAND, Jan. 29—Cleveland detectives today are hunting for three soft-talking, shoeless gunmen who bound a watchman and looted the office of a downtown diamond merchant of $15,000 in jewels and $200 in cash.

The three men, wearing blue satin hoods and flashing .45-caliber automatic pistols, climbed through an unlocked washroom window in Cleveland Arcade and surprised the watchman, Albert B. Carder, 54, yesterday morning.

One of the gunmen bound Carder's wrists and forced him into the elevator with the other two men and they went to the third floor office of Ernest Stein, a diamond merchant.

They forced Carder to show the key which opened the door and entered. Inside, the watchman was ordered to sit on the floor while one of the gunmen guarded him.

The other two knocked the combination of a safe in the inner office and took out a metal strongbox. After binding Carder's feet, the trio escaped through an exit into an alley.

Police described the safe cracking as a "professional" job.

Airforce Checks Jet Plane Crash Which Took Life Of Don Gentile

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 — The Airforce today probed the jet plane crash which killed Capt. Don S. Gentile, 30, who became America's top European air ace in World War II after being rejected by the Army.

Killed with the flier the late President Roosevelt dubbed "Captain Courageous" was a sergeant whose identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Gentile, credited with shooting down 19 German planes and destroying six on the ground, died in a routine proficiency flight from Andrews Airforce Base near Washington.

The T-33 jet trainer carrying the two men suddenly dove into the ground near Forestville, Md., about 20 minutes after takeoff.

Joseph King, in whose farm the plane hit, said he heard it slash through some tree tops before it crashed. Parts of the ship were strewn over a quarter-mile area.

Gentile's body was found more than 20 feet from the wreckage, which set fire to nearby shrubbery and necessitated the calling out of fire equipment.

The handsome flier flew 182 combat missions totaling 350 combat hours in World War II and for a time flight tested jets at Wright Field for the Airforce upon his return from Europe.

Gentile, a native of Piqua, Ohio, was rejected by the then Army Air Corps in 1941 because he lacked two years college education. So he joined the Canadian air force and went to Britain,
